Greetings all,

Thank you for subscribing to our newsletter and supporting the new Research Theme in Health Equity & Translational Social Science (HETSS) at the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA! We will be sharing news of upcoming events, links to previous webinar recordings, and any related information we receive regarding resources, funding, and other opportunities. If you have any questions, comments, or concerns, please email hetss@mednet.ucla.edu

For more information about HETSS, please visit our website: https://medschool.ucla.edu/hetss

Thank you so much and have a wonderful summer!

With immense gratitude,
Ethel Roxas, MPH
Sr. Public Engagement & Collaboration Research Manager
Research Theme in Health Equity & Translational Social Science (HETSS)

---

UPCOMING WEBINAR:
[Registration open. Click on flyer to register.]

Black & Asian Relations in America:
Dangers & Opportunities for Health Equity

Please join us for a timely, educational webinar on Friday, June 25th at 1-2pm PT. Dr. Kyeyoung Park from UCLA Anthropology and Asian American Studies and Dr. Alyssia Newman from Johns Hopkins University will each present on this topic based on their own scholarship. Talks are to be followed by remarks from discussant, Dr. Carlos Ordonez from UCLA National Clinician Scholars Program, and then Q&A. This event is free. Registration is required.

!Speakers

- Alyssa M. Newman, PhD
  Health Outi fellow
  Berman Institute of Bioethics
  Johns Hopkins University

- Carlos Ordonez, MD, MPH
  VA Advanced HSRR Fellow
  UCLA Specialty Training & Advanced Research (STARR) Fellow

- Kyeyoung Park, PhD
  Professor
  UCLA Anthropology & Asian American Studies

Co-sponsored by the Research Themes in Health Equity & Translational Social Science and the Bixler Social Medicine Grand Rounds series

- Friday, June 25, 2021 at 1-2pm PT
- Free Zoom Webinar.

[REGISTER HERE]
• Please check out our Youtube Playlist for the recordings of our previous webinars.

UPCOMING EVENTS RELATED TO HEALTH EQUITY & SOCIAL SCIENCE MEDICINE:

• 6/21/2021 at 12pm: Health Equity, Diversity, & Inclusion (HEDI) Department Showcase
• 6/23/2021 at 7am: Obstetrics & Gynecology Grand Rounds – A Quantitative Study of Experiences with Delays in Abortion Care in LA with Dr. Christina Jung
• 6/23/2021 at 7:15am: Urology Grand Rounds – Palliative Medicine with Dr. Karl Lorenz
• 6/23/2021 at 9am: Using the Critical Race Tools of Racial Microaggressions and Microaffirmations with Dr. Daniel Solórzano
• 6/24/2021 at 6pm: Out, Proud and Well: The UCLA Health PRIDE Drag Showcase
• 6/25/2021 at 8pm: Pediatric Grand Rounds – Pediatric Mental Health during COVID with Dr. Bonnie Zima

Please note: If above hyperlink is an email address, please email the linked contact to inquire about the respective Zoom webinar information.

For more information about upcoming related events, please check out our calendar.

*If you would like to share an event here, please email hetss@mednet.ucla.edu
Dr. Enrico Castillo is a public psychiatrist, a health services/health policy researcher, and an associate residency program director with a dual affiliation with the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health and the UCLA Department of Psychiatry and Biobehavioral Sciences. He served as co-chair of the DGSOM COVID-19 Health Equity Research and Advisory Committee and is a nationally recognized leader in mental health services and policies to address homelessness among individuals with serious mental illness.

DR. ENRICO CASTILLO

HEALTHCARE AS A POLITICAL ACT

What are pressing issues in your line of work that healthcare professionals should focus on?

“It is critical that healthcare takes a strong look at its values and where those values come from. For a long time, physicians have held this stance that they want to be objective and apolitical, but what is coming into greater focus now as a community, is that healthcare and also medical education are inherently political acts. By political, I don’t mean Democratic or Republican, but I mean that everything we do involves power, ideology, and the organization of people.”

USING POSITIONALITY TO UNDERSTAND HIS WORK

How did you discover your passion for this field?

“Positionality is important for all of us to pay attention to, to see how it informs our work and our interests, as well as what doors are open and closed to us. Being raised in rural Virginia as a 2nd generation Filipino American cis-gender man, my own personal experiences with racism in society, healthcare, and social exclusion informs my work. I’ve always been focused on care for under-resourced populations or tailoring systems in order to improve outcomes or address disparities. It’s an overarching theme of my life, but I’ve been able to channel it into different areas.”

SHIFTING TOWARDS HEALTH EQUITY IN MEDICAL RESEARCH AND EDUCATION

Could you please talk about your work in health equity, translational social science, and mental health?

“I was just funded through the Research Scholars Award to focus on a project to examine and address the jail-to-homelessness pipeline experienced by people with serious mental illness. I also recently published a piece with Dr. Christina Harris so that all medical research is directed towards health equity. When one does a research project in medicine, it has to go through a scientific review. ‘Is it good science?’ ‘Is it an ethical project? Are you violating people’s rights?’ But it doesn’t go through a review to understand whether it helps or hurts under-resourced communities. Does it help or worsen inequities? That was the focus of our project: giving people a tool that they can use so that all medical research is directed toward health equity. It is key when training new physicians to consider whether we are training them to understand, address, and end inequities, or are we training them to work within inequitable systems.”

EDITED BY: NICOLE VILLASIS AND JAMIE HSU